Mrs. Powers jumped from the fourth story window and fell upon a pile of iron. She was horribly bruised and will die. The latter two were taken to the hospital The fire originated in the second story, over the boiler, but from what cause is unknown. Most alarming reports are circulated and it will require a long search to reveal the truth or falsity or the exciting rumors. A large number were em-ployed assorting the junk, many of them women. Two women are known to have perished in the fismes.

TEN MINERS DROWNED.

GOLDEN, Col., Sept. 10.—One of the most serious mining accidents ever known in this part of the State occurred late yesterday afternoon in the White Ash coal mine near this place. An abandoned mine alongside of the White Ash has for months alongside of the White Ash has for months been full of water, which yesterday, without a moment's warning, burst through into the White Ash mine, filling it with mud and water. Ten miners are known to have been at work in the mine at the time of the disaster, and not one of them could have lived five minutes after the surging mass broke in upon them. It will probably take two or three weeks to reach their bodies. The names of but three of the unfortunate names of but three of the unfortunate men can be given—John Murphy, John Morgan and — Allen, but it is positively known that ten lives have been lost. Most of them have families. The work of pumping and clearing out the mine will be commenced at once.

ARMY DESERTIONS.

Comparative Table—The Causes of De-sertions — What Remedies Are Proposed.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The subject of desertion from the army will be treated at length in the forthcoming report of the Secretary of War, Mr. Proctor having given it much attention. Various changes have improved the condition of the soldiers and as a result the desertions have decreased since 1888, as will be seen from the following table:

Of these desertions 95 per cent. occurred among men serving their first and second year of enlistment.

In May last Major Theodore Schwan,

In May last Major Theodore Schwan, Assistant Adjutant-General, under instructions of Secretary Proctor, made a tour of inspection of the recruiting depots at David's Island, N. Y.; Columbus, O., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo. He is himself a soldier who came up from the ranks and his report contains numerous suggestions, including a draft of a bill prepared by him last winter after a study of the situation calculated to lessen the evil of desertion. He says: "Whatever causes of discontent may have at one time existed, such as lack of provisions or care of the physical comforts and needs of the enlisted soldier or unreasonable demands the physical comforts and needs of the en-listed soldier or unreasonable demands upon or harsh treatment of him, they have been improved so far as it has been in the power of the military authorities to do." In this connection Secretary Proctor has prepared a statement of the number of de-sertions from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., showing that in the past three years they have been respectively 256 244 and 250. a have been respectively 256, 244 and 250, a remarkably even record. One feature of Major Schwan's bill is that it gives to all peace officers Federal and State authority to arrests deserters upon their own responsibility and without warrant or military authority. Additional safeguards against the readmission tional sareguards against the readmission to the service of repeaters or deserters are about to be adopted under instructions already given by the War Department. Another provision of the bill is that one-third of the soldier's pay for the first year shall be retained until his discharge and forfeited if he does not serve out his term. Men discharged before their term expires, their own request, are not to receive travel pay. It also provides for the adoption of the British custom of permitting enlisted men to purchase their discharge.

Acting Adjutant-General McKeever and and others of the staff have at Secretary Proctor's request submitted reports on the subject of desertions which he has now under consideration. One of these recommends that the sum of money re### quired to purchase a discharge be placed at $50. OVER NIAGARA.

At 5:30, Brodie, with his paddle, entered the water. He caught the current, waved his paddle to Gerold and McCarthy and a few seconds later was shot over the center of the Horseshoe falls. Luckily he went over the outside of one of the falling volumes of water. He was quickly lost in the mist and foam.

He was buried from view for nearly two minutes, when, a black speck, covered with a thick white coating, was seen bobbing and jumping to and fro in the boil-ing caldron of rushing, gurgling waters. In a short time Brodie was caught in the rushing waters and carried at a brisk pace toward the American shore, and then all of a sudden he was hur-ried toward the Canadian shore where ried toward the Canadian shore where John Ledger had ropes ready to drag him from the water. Ledger was stripped and swam out 200 feet with a rope fastened to his waist, while W. E. Harding held the other end on shore. Ledger, after several attempts, reached Brodia, fastened the rope to the iron bands around his waist and then swam ashore and assisted in pulling the daring swimmer ashore.

poured in small quantities on his temples, and he was rubbed and chafed. He was insensible and blood coxed from his mouth, nose and ears, probably from the con-

For twenty minutes Brodie lay un scious. Then ammonis was applied to his nostrils, and he began to shiver and ges-ticulate with his hands. He gradually recovered consciousness and it was then found that his injuries were not serious. Brodie says that after he entered the river he weakened and would have given any thing in the world if he could have reached solid ground once more. He attempted to get ashore by using his paddle, when the swift current swept him back and turned his feet towards the brink of the cataract. When he saw that it was im the cataract. When he saw that it was impossible to get out, he felt the same as a man who was about to meet death, and prayed for dear life. Just as he came to the brink of the falls be became unconscious through fright and remained so until he struck the water. Then he again lost conscious as and he water. lost consciousness and knew no more until he found himself lying on his rubber suit at the water's edge. There is no doubt that Brodie successfully went over the falls.

It is now generally believed that the story about Casper Graham going over the falls in a barrel a few days ago and surviving was merely a fake for advertising purposes. That being the case Brodle is the first person to go over the falls and live.

Panis, Sept 8.—The Minister of Justice has sent a circular to the Bishops of France reminding them that the clergy are prohibited by law from taking part in the elections. The circular says the Government. ernment will unhesitatingly and vigor-ously proceed against ecclesiastics who may overstep the lines enjoined under all Governments since the Concordat. It was the violation of this law which caused the difficulties between the civil power and the religious authorities at the commencement of the present regime. He has also instructed the public prosecutors to take measures to punish severely the commis-sion by the clergy of off uses against the
